Pepe Peñalver: fabrics that tell stories

At Pepe Peñalver, we create fabrics that tell stories in every corner of the world. This time, our new collections have led us to imagine a new setting in the Land of the Rising Sun, where tradition and modernity intertwine in perfect harmony. Inspired by Japan's rich cultural heritage, we have designed fabrics intended to create unique pieces that can transform the spaces they inhabit. They are not mere bystanders, but the protagonists of the story. We have intentionally lost ourselves in this idea to discover new trends in textures, patterns, and colors that give meaning to the six new collections.

Nagare

Sheers and Curtains with Organic Inspiration

This collection of sheers and curtains pays tribute to the harmony between the elements that dress a home.

Nagare means 'the flowing current', a concept that reflects the graceful drape of the fabrics in this collection, inspired by natural elements such as the ever-changing form of water or light filtering through tree leaves. Each fabric is designed to integrate seamlessly into the spaces it inhabits.

The use of recycled fibres in two of its designs underscores the brand's commitment to sustainability. With soft drapes and organic textures, Nagare's sheers bring serenity and balance without compromising cutting-edge design.

KAMI

Inspired by the spirituality of Japan's natural elements, Kami unfolds with an almost ethereal lightness, dressing spaces with timeless elegance. This open-weave sheer with a geometric design merges modern style with a rustic aesthetic. Its texture and natural fluidity allow light to glide through its threads with unparalleled softness, where tradition and modernity intertwine. Kami incorporates recycled polyester in its composition, reinforcing its mindful essence and uniting beauty with responsibility in a single expression.

MORI

Mori is a delicate sheer whose lightness creates spaces where light takes centre stage. The subtle weave of this fabric evokes the stillness of the forest, where light filters through the leaves, casting shadows and glimmers in a hypnotic dance. Available in thirteen shades, each inspired by the rich hues of Japanese nature, this sheer provides visual comfort through its mastery of diffusing light. Its composition includes recycled fibres, strengthening its bond with the earth and blending aesthetic sensitivity with environmental commitment.

NIWA

Niwa draws inspiration from the aesthetics of Japanese gardens, where every element is arranged in perfect balance and harmony. Its lightness and subtly marled weave create a delicate sheer that filters light naturally, with a soft drape that brings continuity and calm to interiors. Its linen-rich composition gives it a soft, pleasant touch that enhances the simplicity of its character. Available in ten washed-effect shades, this fabric integrates effortlessly into spaces, making it a highly versatile choice.

YUME

Evoking the moment when light touches water and dissolves into rippling reflections, Yume captures this essence and transforms it into a curtain with an organic appearance and fluid drape, enveloping spaces in an atmosphere of tranquillity and sophistication. A fabric with a flowing movement and a rustic texture that blurs the boundaries between indoors and outdoors, turning interiors into serene, dreamlike settings. Yume is available in four neutral shades that seamlessly integrate into any composition.

CALAFATE

Calafate is a net sheer with an organic design and a rustic appearance. It stands out for its lightness and fluid movement, creating a natural and inviting atmosphere. Its delicate structure allows light to filter through generously, bringing brightness to interiors while maintaining both privacy and style.
